TABLE OF CONTENTS

Methodology & Approach

- ❑ Sample size: 5,844
- ❑ Confidence level: 99% and MoE of 1.74%
- ❑ The sample size was allocated to all the regions based on total number of voters in each of the regions as per the EC 2020 register.
- ❑ A random selection of 30% of constituencies from each region was then selected and allocated the regional quota based on total voters in each of those constituencies.
- ❑ Respondents were selected randomly in the streets, homes and workplaces.
- ❑ Party affiliation is defined as the party the voter usually votes for, or in the case of first-time voters, the party they intend to vote for. Floating voters are voters who vote different political parties over several election cycles or does not align him/herself to any of the registered political parties
- ❑ Field interviews were conducted between 31st December and 15th January 2023
- ❑ The results of the primaries and general elections head-to-head are based on “likely voters” model which exclude responses of voters who have indicated they will not in the primaries and presidential elections.
- ❑ The poll is a cross-sectional survey
- ❑ For MPs performance assessment, score of excellent, very good and good were summed up to determine the ranking order.
- ❑ The constituency result will carry larger margin of error as the focus of the poll is national.
- ❑ Findings may suggest what may be happening in the constituency which may require further investigations.

NPP PRIMARIES

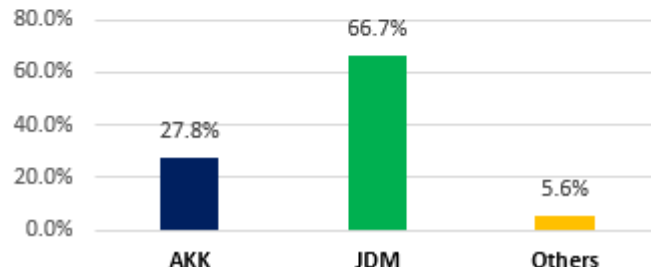

NDC PRIMARIES

DMB v JDM

AKK v JDM

Commentary: The MP is in danger of becoming one-term MP even though NPP voters outnumber those from NDC by 2:1. If he wins the primaries, he is very likely to lose the seat. JDM currently leads both NPP potential candidates in the constituency, a situation which could make it harder for the MP to retain his seat if JDM wins the constituency.

Commentary: The MP maybe in trouble as voters who intend to not vote for him outweigh those who intend to, with over 50% not having made up their minds. He is likely to face serious challenge in the primaries. He has a lot of work to do to shore up his support as over 54% of voters are sitting on the fence in an overwhelmingly NPP constituency.
